Dear Coming Out of the Woods.

Deer are being reported again and in numbers. During the past month and in fact since Christmas, when the first heavy fall of snow came, the deer have not been seen except rarely. They have remained in the deeper recesses of the woods, where they were better able to protect themselves against the cold.

Free Care for Borough Patients.

Patients from the town of Killingly received 149 days of free care at the Day-Kill hospital in Putnam during the past year. Killingly does not support a free bed at the institution, as is the practice of several other towns in this part of the county.

Boat Owners Evading Assessment.

The grand recapitulation of the property owned in the town of Killingly, according to the figures compiled by the assessors from the lists handed to them, shows that the total value of vessels is only $250. One owner of a launch said Thursday that he had sworn to the above mentioned amount as the value of his boat alone.

Evidently there are some other owners of boats in Killingly that have not made returns to the assessors.

Waiting for an Angel.

With the annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut baseball league only two days away, no man or group of men are decided to back a team in Danielson this summer.

As the meeting is to be held in Danielson Sunday, there is hope among the fans that someone will have interest enough to appear at the meeting with a proposition for putting a team in town next summer.

Staples Stole a Ring.

Albert W. Staples, arrested in Putnam for breaking and entering, it was learned by Chief Pilling on Thursday, is guilty of theft. Staples stole a ring, valued at $25, from Joseph Betel, who is employed by Henry Dembo, who has a store in the Key-stone block.

When Chief Pilling learned of this he telephoned to Putnam and gave Captain Murray a description of the ring. Captain Murray had Staples in the cage at the police headquarters at the time and was able to learn immediately that the prisoner had the ring in his possession on his finger.

In fact, Betel says that Staples had been loitering about the store Wednesday afternoon and that he stole the ring out of a drawer in a sewing machine, where it had been put for safe keeping. Staples was brought to Danielson Thursday morning and taken from here to Brooklyn jail to await trial at the March term of the superior court.

Broke Into S. O. Co.'s Barn.

Another break reported in Danielson shows that the horses of the Standard Oil company are kept on Mechanic street has been visited. Entrance was gained by forcing the lock. The crooks made their way into the barn and stole the horses.

It happened that they had been left in Moosup, as is a frequent custom, over night. The persons who entered the Mechanic street barn may be the same ones who forced an entrance to William Keech's wheelwright shop on Center street.

Majority of Thieves Under Twenty.

Incident to the arrest of young Staples for burglary, it is remarked that of all the cases that have come before the superior court in this county during the last few years on similar charges the majority of the prisoners have been under twenty-one years of age. That so many young men should be arrested on such a serious charge is a cause for wonder.

TO HAVE TEAM.

George Lewis of C. A. C. Will Represent City at Danielson Meet.

Putnam is to have a baseball team in the Eastern Connecticut league this summer. George Lewis, a prominent member of the Catholic Athletic club, said Thursday afternoon that he would be at the league meeting in Danielson Sunday afternoon to represent Putnam.

Mr. Lewis says that he has been approached by some of the influential men of the city and invited to go ahead with the work of placing a team in the league. Mr. Lewis also says that interest has revived in the league among the members of the C. A. C. This will please the fans.

STAPLES HELD.

Bonds Fixed at $1,000—Committed to Brooklyn Jail.

Albert W. Staples, arrested here for breaking and entering the Pierson home on Bridge street, was found probably guilty by Judge L. H. Fuller in the city court at hearing Thursday morning, and in default of $1,000 bonds was committed to the jail at Brooklyn to await trial at the March term of the superior court.

Arthur Macdonald was named as guardian ad litem by the court. Staples being a minor. On advice of Mr. Macdonald, Staples entered a plea of not guilty. He was apparently little impressed with the gravity of the situation in which he is involved, and smiled and ate peanut sandy with relish during the hearing.

Some of the officers are disinclined to believe that the boy has given his right name. Neither is it believed by all that his home is in Taunton, as when questioned it was evident that he knew very little about that city.

The glass-cutter which he used in getting into the house, and which could not be found on his person when he was arrested here, was secured Thursday by Chief Pilling of Danielson at the young man's house where the young man has been staying in that place. The ring which he stole from Joseph Betel was returned to the owner Thursday.

American Silk Journal Sketches Successful Career of Representative J. A. Dady.

The current number of the American Silk Journal has a page article and an excellent likeness of Representative John A. Dady of this city, one of the most successful silk throwers in Connecticut.

The article, which reviews Mr. Dady's early training and his business career, is in part as follows:

In 1873 when 17 years of age he began as a bobbin boy in the silk mill of C. L. Bathin & Co. at Conantville, and at the end of two years had become superintendent of the throwing department. When the firm of Hammond, Knowlton & Co. was organized, in Putnam, in 1888, Mr. Dady went with the concern as an expert finisher in the spinning department. Later he became superintendent and confidential man, a position he occupied until he built his first mill in Putnam, in 1892.

In 1892, which the firm of Hammond, Knowlton & Co. was organized, in Putnam, in 1888, Mr. Dady went with the concern as an expert finisher in the spinning department. Later he became superintendent and confidential man, a position he occupied until he built his first mill in Putnam, in 1892.
